

My work is the product of a lifetime spent pondering the Eternal Paradox of the body as filter/translator of incorporeal experience, especially as it relates to the contested bodies of women, both historically and right this damn minute. I use many different forms, but all are intended to be essentially utilitarian, both for me and anyone else, in the way of icons, altars, talismans, or rituals.